"Raising Intellectually
Curious, Globally Minded
Children"

BRAD GOSCHE
GLOBAL AFFAIRS EDUCATOR
COLUMBUS BUSINESS FIRST 40 UNDER 40

To effectively prepare our children for an ever-evolving world, we need to start by helping them develop intellectual curiosity, critical thinking skills, and appropriate language for approaching sensitive topics. One of the most effective ways to do this is by exposing our children to multicultural environments early and often.

Brad Gosche, a recognized leader in global education and communication, will lead a workshop where parents receive valuable tips and concrete takeaways for supporting their children to become increasingly globally minded and intellectually curious of the world around them.
