

We invite you and your company to become part of our learning experiences here at the Olentangy Academy. Are you a STEM professional who could donate your time and talent to our students? We would love to host you in our building! Does your company offer products or services that may benefit from young and innovative thinkers to perhaps work out a solution to a particular problem? We welcome the opportunity to help! Do you have fund raising skills that may be of use to the academy? Please share them with us as we are always on the lookout for ways to purchase educational tools from the ever-changing world of technology. Thanks for considering our students.
